One Chinese, who was a member of a burial party, says that the Japanese fired when he and other Chinese attempted to bury the dead. He adds that when the wind carries the odors toward the Japanese, the latter retire.

Chinese say that the most severe attacks were made on the supplementary forts of the Itz and Anshu Mountain forts. The Russians had undermined the ground, and several hundred Japanese were blown up on September 23d. Reports received from the Maotao Islands mention a terrific report, which shook the houses there on that date.

The Russians' ships, says the report, teck no part in the battle. From thirty to fifty shells fell daily in the Chinese new town. One shell tore the runder from a torpedo boat destroyer. The Russians are now building a new fort on Liaoti Promonitory, bearing on the island side. Its construction indicates that five large guns will form the nucleus of the battery.

The Jupanese are sending out large parties of scouts daily with the object of checking the Russlans' continuous raids.

The march of General Bennenkampf's Cossacks around the Jupanese right flank which was mentioned in these dispatches on September 28th, was a renarkable perfermance. Accompanied by a battery of artillery, the Cossacks covered eighty miles in fifty-two hours. They struck the cuemy north of Bentsiaputze on September 19th, and thence continued south circling the Japanese right flank and coming unexpectedly on the Japanese time of cymunications near Bentsihu on the bank of the Taitse River, September 22d, inflicted considerable damage. The Japanese were thrown into great confusion, but the Cossacks retired with a loss of only two killed.

Most of the scenes are worked up just to the point of a melodramatic climax, and then end suddenly and quietly.

This plan in the construction of the p'een is most effective with the audience. It carries the audience to the jumping-off place, and then leaves them high in the nir, safe and sound, when they expected to make the leap. The play would no doubt have a peculiar effect upon a gallery audience. It would work them up just to that point when they prepare to let themselves look, and then the scene would end, leaving them looking foolish, like the man who runs to a blocked street crossing, thinking there is a fight, and finds a funeral process on passing.

The play, which is in five acts, and seven scenes, is interesting from first ideast, the audience is always looking for new developments, and is always trying to anticipate some climax, which doesn't come.

to anticipate some climax, which doesn't come.

The company is a most capable one, Mr. Edward Morgain, as David Roset, slives a quiet, though forceful portrayal of the character. He possesses a handsome stage presence and has a well modulated, even-toned voice, that makes his every speech most impressive. He is quiet in his methods, but very earnest. Miss Janet Waldorf gave to the part of Douna Roma that subtle charm with which the author endowed the character. The Barun Bonelli of Mr. Frederic de Belleville, was a splendid piece of work. Mr. W. E. Bonney made a manily, wholesonled, lusty Bruno Rocco, his work being of that hearty, robust nature, that impresses one with its force. He received due recognition for his excellent portrayal of the role, Mr. Frank C. LIQUOR MEN IN SESSION I

State Association Addressed by Mayor McCarthy and Is Greatly Pleased.

Reports of Various Officers Show Organization to be in Prosperous Condition.

The State Liquor Dealers' Association onvened vesterday at Sanger Hall for their annual meeting, and the attendance of delegates was most gratifying to the body, there being over sixty delegates present from outside of the city. The feature of the business sessions yesterday which was most pleasing to the mem bers and heartily in accord with the ideas and principles. The session was devoted to the reading of the various reports, and last night the local associa-tion tendered the organization a banquet which was pronounced to be one of the most successful and delightful entertain-ments ever given to the association.

The Opening Session.

At noon yesterday President Lefew, of the local association, introduced the Mayor, and when he had concluded he was responded to by President John A. Lesner, of the State association. A recess of five minutes was then taken, and the body went into executive session, which lasted until dinner hour. In the afternoon the body again assembled and the various reports were read. President Lesner's paper give a review of what the body had done during the past year and what gigantic strides had been made in the advancement and uplifting of the several suggestions, which were of a most important nature to the association. The secretary's report was read by Mr. L. B. Hancock, of Norfolk. The treasurer's report was submitted by Mr. L. Lazarus, of Lynchburg.

Mayor McCarthy's Talk. The Opening Session.

deserving of the same protection that any other merchant might be allowed. He sald that it is peculiar in its nature and necessarily under surveillance. It needs the guidance of the most intelligent, farseeing and conscientious men. Those who conduct it can do more than others to protect it by compelling obedience to law and submission to regulation.

At this juncture Mayor McCarthy was applauded heartily. He said that the sale of powder and drugs is regulated by law, the carrying—of concealed weapons is made unlawful, unisances are required to be abuted, crime is punished. Neither the man who sells plstols nor the man who sells powder is held accountable for the acts of the man who buys them. The Mayor said: "The moral is: Punish the debauchee and the drunkard; hold them to strict account."

The Mayor took up the new State law under which so many clubs have recently surprise finto existence, and criti-

under which so many clubs have re-cently sprung into existence, and criti-cised it in a most severe manner, saying that justice to the heavily taxed liquor dealer demanded its repeal

Banquet Last Night.

Last night Sanger Hall presented a brilliant appearance when the State liquor dealers assembled around the festive board.

Covers were laid for about three hundred, and an elegant menu was served by Henry Lorch.

President Lefew, of the local association and president of the Virginia-Carolina Grocery Company, presided as toastmaster, and in a most happy vein introduced the speakers of the evening.

Between the speeches and during the banquet Thilow's ofchestra played pretty music.

President Lesner, of the State Asso-President Lesner, of the State Association, was first called upon and responded in a most pleasant manner, and then conferred the honor upon first Vice-President K. INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Sept. 28.—The first Republican meeting of the campaign at Indianapolis was held in Tomlinson Hall to-night. Congressman Overstreet presided and in a brief address introduced Senator Beverldge, who said among other things:

"Eighteen ninety-six was no more, a time for silence and hiding than 1951 was a time for cowardice and exasion. It was not only a political struggle, but on both sides it was a moral struggle. On both sides men who had for years trimmed and compromised threw aside expediency nd spoke and acted on principles. Was Grover Cleveland silent then? Did he by his vote condone what he declared with his voice would be a crime? Were Senator Teller and the band of life-long Republicans who marched out of the St. Louis Convention silent then? Did they condone by their votes, what their tongues proclaimed would be a crime? Were John M. Palmer and General Buckmer and the host of gold Democrats silent then? Thousands of life-long Republicans left their party, Among eighty millions of people there was a new alignment; hundreds of thousands of life-long bemocrats left their party. Among eighty millions of people there was a new alignment; hundreds of thousands changing sides, and all because of a principle when they believed would determine the future of the republic; yet at this hour when men were destroying their political future for principle's sake, in this hour made heroic by their devotion to beliefs on both sides—Alton B. Parker was silent, but he voted for free silver, is that the kind of a man in whom gold Democrats can now find the leader of a cause? Is that the kind of a man in whom silver Democrats can now find the leader of a cause? Is that the kind of a man in whom silver Democrats can now find the leader of a cause?

As on former occasions when Judgo Parker has visited New York he has been urged to undertake some extensive speaking campaign on his own behalf. It understood that he has now declared final his decision not to make political speeches except to delegations which may call on him at his home at Esopus. It seems likely now he will accede to request that he make two speeches each week, each speech confined to one topic espable of more than one political interpretation.

No Headquarters in West. No Headquarters in West.

An apparent settlement for the present of the question of establishment of Wistern Democratic headquarters was announced at the National Committee rooms to-day. Members of the Executive Committee said no such headquarters would to-day. Members of the Executive Coumittee said no such headquarters would be established, and Charman Taggart said that letters and telegrams received to-day made it appear that the establishment of such headquarters was unnecessary. Mr. Taggart expects to go West, and also to visit such other points as seem necessary, but unless something at present unforeseen occurs, there will be no regular Western branch, and the campaign will be managed from this city.

After his conference with Judge Parker early to-day, Senator Hill saw a number of State leaders at his hotel, and then early to-day, Senator Hill saw a number of State leaders at his hotel, and then made a trip down town. In the afternoon he went to the National Democratic headquarters and conferred with the managers of the campaign. Save to express his general satisfaction with present conditions Senator Hill had nothing to say. While at headquarters he arranged for some future speaking dates.

Public Reception.

Nearly all of the details for the public reception to be given for Judge Parker at the Manhattan Club have been completed. The reception, unless some change is made, will be held on next Wednesday night. Invitations will be extended to the Democratic National Committee, all members of the Parker Constitution Club and a number of other large Democratic organizations, including Tammany Hall. It is likely that Justice D. Cady Herrick and Representative Francis Burton Harrison, candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, respectively, will attend. Judge Parker does not intend to speak at the reception, and, in fact, no speeches of any kind will be made, according to the present programme. Public Reception.
